With a stable hull and lots of space, the Pioneer 197 suits all-day fishing trips! am never sure of the right kind of weather in which to test boats. The really pleasant kind puts no stress on the boat, and you have to imagine or (this sounds more scientific) extrapolate its poor weather abilities. Go out in lousy weather and you find those out all right, but it's hardly a realistic test ...

We have a 2015 197 islander(bay boat). Last spring we noticed a bunch of hairline cracks running along the gunwale at the deck. We talked to the dealer, who talked with the manufacturer. Pioneer said they need the boat back for repairs over the winter. We delivered it in the fall and it hasn't been picked up yet.
